School Board To Choose High School Teacher

The school committee will meet in its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. The principal business to be brought up will be the appointment of a successor to Miss Mary L. Smith whose retirement was announced in last week's Townsman. Miss Smith has been teaching English in the high school for many years, and during that time spent a year in travel in China. She has been generally considered one of the most valuable of the Punched teaching staff.

When the freshman class in the high school became the ninth grade in the junior high four teachers were transferred from Punched to the new school, with the understanding that they would have first choice on vacancies in the high school. Accordingly, the school authorities offered Miss Smith's position to Miss Ida Grover who has been teaching English, Latin and mathematics in the Junior high. Miss Grover, however, preferred to retain her present position, since her major subjects were Latin and French. No meeting of the sub-committee on teachers has been held yet to decide on a recommendation.

Schools To Reopen Next Wednesday

Punched high school and the Junior high will reopen next Wednesday with normal enrollments expected. Very few changes are being made, with the resignation of Miss Dorothy Trott and Miss Mary L. Smith providing the only vacancies. In the Junior high Benjamin Dimlich will be a regular teacher instead of a cadet, and Miss Mabel Barron has been made a cadet. No one has been appointed as yet to fill Miss Smith's place.

This year it is planned to eliminate the former practice of allowing children to go downtown during the recess period. In the past the children were given permission to do this, but because of public sentiment against having school children on the streets of the town during school hours the ruling has been changed. Except for this, it was found in a survey last spring that discipline in the two schools was above the average of other towns.

Richard Whitcomb Gives Talk Here

Richard Whitcomb of Springfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, invaded opponent Fred Butler's home town on Tuesday night, giving a talk in the town hall. He urged that heads of government should have a background as both employee and employer so that they could feel what labor really wants and what industry must have to survive. Collective bargaining, he said, was merely the giving to the employee the right of free speech and of petition.

The meeting was held under the sponsorship of the Andover "Whitcomb-for-Governor" committee, the members of which have been announced as follows by Chairman John M. MacKenzie: James Blanchard, Fred G. Cheney, Walter R. Davis, Mrs. Walter Howe, Mrs. Edward J. O'Donnell, Carlton A. Read, Frank Rizzo, Ruth Saunders and Eugene M. Weeks.

Choose Delegates For Party Conventions

The two political parties will elect delegates to the state convention at the coming primaries. Twelve Republicans will go, the slate including: Mildred H. Brown, Andover street; Harriet S. Chase, 13 Canterbury street; Marion G. Graham, 6 Johnson road; Edward P. Hall, Dascomb road; C. Milton Jackson, 223 South Main street; Mitchell Johnson, 47 Central street; Roger H. Lewis, Lowell street; Cynthia E. Pike, Lowell street; Frank J. Rizzo, 279 South Main street; Frances T. Wade, 91 Lowell street; Mary D. Winslow, Lowell street; Richard Zecchini, 9 Walnut avenue.

Augustine Reilly is the only name on the Democratic Ballot.

Mrs. Alfred Coates and daughter Dorothy of Summer street spent the week-end at Old Orchard Beach.

Not Sure of Who Shall Spend Fund

Town Treasurer Thaxter Eaton received a check for $13,150 from the state on Tuesday as Andover's share of the gasoline tax refund, but it's been tucked away safely in the town treasury until local officials find out what the law is all about. No copy of the act has been received as yet.

Mr. Eaton conferred with selectman Shepard about the check, and the chairman suggested that it be put right into the treasury as free cash until such time as a copy of the act is received here. It was thought in some quarters that the fund could be used immediately by the Board of Public Works, but the more general feeling now on the matter is that the town meeting will have to decide who shall spend it and how it shall be spent. Chairman Shepard states that it is his understanding from the newspaper accounts of the law that the money is to be spent by the towns, which means a town meeting vote. He stated that it is for highway maintenance and construction for the purpose of creating employment.

The Board of Public Works did not meet this week and no request has been transmitted as yet to the selectmen for a specific date for a town meeting. A total of $2143.13 still remained in the W. P. A. materials account on the town's books yesterday.

Town Meeting Gubernatorial Reverberations

Who's working for whom? Several local people asked themselves this question during the past week when they found that their names had been included on committees for certain candidates, whereas their intention had been and still was to vote for some other candidate.

But one local lady who has not hesitated at times to make herself heard at town meeting didn't ask herself this question; she asked the man who quoted her as being in favor of a candidate whom she was not supporting. Lev Saltonstall was the innocent intermediary in the exchange. The lady had received a letter from the gubernatorial aspirant stating that so-and-so had informed him that she was a staunch supporter of Mr. Saltonstall, and he was writing to thank her for her ef-

My Wife Gives Me a Dime

"My wife gives me a dime for a cigarette, and what do I do? Do I get my cigarettes? No, I go down town, I bum my cigarettesh and I shpend my dime for a glassh of beer. Someone comes along, and they give me another glass. Then someone gets me another glass. Then I go home, and do I have my cigarettesh? No, but I'm half-plashed! I'm going to vote against license."

He didn't say it as fast as that, and he put in a few extra words that we'd rather not print, but that was the substance of a theoretical prohibitionist's talk to us the other night.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Established 1887

Published on Thursday at Smith & Coutts Co., 4 Park Street, Andover, Mass., by Elmer J. Grover.

Entered at the Andover Postoffice as Second Class Matter

Shall We Invest Or Waste $13,150

There seems to be some doubt at present as to who will have charge of the spending of the $13,150 which is returned to Andover by the state in accordance with the bill recently passed by the state legislature. It is to be used, as far as is known now, by the Town of Andover for the purpose of creating employment, and it would seem from this that it would require a town meeting vote to dispose of it.

But whoever has the spending of it, this much the townspeople will insist on: it must not be thrown away on worthless non-permanent projects. To some people it may seem a gift, but you can't really call anything a gift if you are giving it to yourself. That money has to come from somewhere, and somewhere this time happens to be the cities and towns of the commonwealth. This spring Taxation Commissioner Long sent the local assessors an estimate of what he thought the state tax levy would be, and at that time he guessed at $23,700. But in the meantime the legislature spent a lot of money, which meant a new record state tax to be raised from the towns. To Andover alone it meant an increase of $23,700 over what the Commissioner guessed, so while we receive with one hand this "gift" of $13,150, we dig 'way deep into our pocket to find over $10,000 more than we're receiving. The 1939 tax rate will tell the story.

So let's not waste this money. Let's insist, first, that the men who work on the projects under this fund must be bona fide welfare cases, men who really need work to take care of their families, men who are out of work temporarily now through no fault of their own, men who are willing to work even when they are on relief. For this reason, it might be well for the town to stipulate on these projects that the selectmen and the welfare agent should name the men who will work on them, for they know the unemployment situation better than anyone else. If this is done, the town will be sure that this unemployment fund will be given to those who need it most.

Then, secondly, let's insist that it be used on permanent projects, things that sooner or later we are going to have to do. Sidewalks, for instance, are much needed in certain parts of the town. Offhand we think of a deplorable situation on Walnut avenue, and another on Haverhill street below the bridge. Or sewer work could be undertaken to advantage in some places, the best part of this financially being that the town receives a reimbursement from the abutting property-owner. This work would of course require that part of the fund be used for materials, but isn't it better to spend something for materials rather than to throw away all this money on jobs which require little material and also result in no permanent gain to the town?

We can either invest this money in happiness for the people who need it and in permanent improvements for the town, or we can waste it on men who don't need it and on projects that will wash away with the next rain.

30 Days' Sentence Complete in 11 Days

Last night a man sat on a hydrant in the Main street business section. Several persons who saw him wondered how he happened to be there, because they remembered that 11 days before he had gone to the House of Correction on a thirty days' sentence as the aftermath of a Saturday night drunk. He had been up before the Court a short while ago, and the sentence meted out at that time had been suspended, but his second breach automatically brought the sentence into force.

But after 11 days he was paroled by the county commissioners for some reason or other. In last week's 25-year-ago Townsman there was a story about this man's being arrested for stealing sums of money from his relatives, and in the last quarter of a century he has become an increasing disgrace to his family and to his town. Of late years he has hung around the square day after day, refusing to work, refusing to do anything but just be a bum, oftentimes a drunken bum. That is the type of individual the county commissioners released from jail, and on his first night out he again became a disgrace to the town.

The Andover police are trying to clean up Andover square, and it's an unfortunate situation when the county commissioners can nullify their efforts.

Candidates To Address Young Republicans

A number of candidates will address the Young Men's Republican club at the September meeting to be held tonight at eight in the Male Choir rooms, National Bank building.

Members are requested to bring a friend along.

Siftings

If some of the state and town street employees were paid by piece-work, they'd starve to death.

More and more it looks like it's the patient that's giving the doctor a purging in this Roosevelt maneuver.

The school children who go back next Wednesday will be glad to know that it's only 12 or so weeks to the Christmas vacation.

Minihan-Carroll

St. Augustine's church was the scene of a pretty six o'clock ceremony last Saturday evening when Miss Margaret Mary Carroll, daughter of Patrick J. Carroll of 5 Elm court and John J. Minihan of Lawrence were united in marriage by Father Smith. Following a reception at Mr. Carroll's home the couple left on a White Mountain wedding trip. They will live at 24

Gardena street, Brighton.

The bride was gowned in white net and lace with a shoulder veil held in place with white roses in her hair. She carried an arm bou-quet of white roses and snapdrag-

ons. Her bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Greene, wore blue moire taffeta with pink accessories, a cluster of pink roses and delphinium in her hair. The same flowers she carried in an arm bouquet.

Thomas F. Collins was best man, and Miss Annie G. Donovan played the wedding march.

Carol Beats Mary In All-Rockwell Finals

Everyone was sure Sunday that the Rockwell girl of North Andover would win the Greater Lawrence Women's Singles Title at Balmoral Spa. And win she did, and if her opponent had won, the Rockwell girl still would have won.

Mary and Carol Rockwell, tennis-playing daughters of tennis-playing Samuel F. Rockwell, faced each other across the net in the finals after they had succeeded in eliminating the preliminary talent. Older sister Mary's forceful driving got her off to a love-set victory, but then Carol came back to win the next two 7-5, 7-5, thanks to her more severe service.

Shawsheen Playground Children Victorious

The Shawsheen playground children had things pretty much their own way last Monday night when the tournament winners from the three playgrounds gathered at the village in an interplayground play-off. Four of the five contests went to Shawsheen, one went to Ballardvale, and Central also ran.

Four first places were won by Shawsheen as follows: Checkers, Gordon Mears; sand building, Richard Bolton; bowling, Frank Roberge; box hockey, Patrick Bissonette with James Abbott of Ballardvale, winning the heel toss contest.

The judges were Stafford A. Lindsay of Shawsheen, James Winters of Andover and Arthur Reading of Ballardvale. The other entries were: Box Hockey: Central—David MacCord; heel toss, Central—Kathleen Lefebvre; Shawsheen, Sally MacLellan; sand building, Central—Zita Surette; Ballardvale, Arlene Stevens; checkers, Ballardvale—Lois Rollins; Central—Donald Haig; bowling, Central—David MacCord.

However, the Central playground children won their share of glory during the week with the soft-ball team defeating Shawsheen in the village 23-13 on Monday after having won another encounter last Thursday in football, 44-6 at the Central. On Tuesday night the Central football team defeated the Vale down there 6-0, but in the afternoon the Vale volley ball girls won three straight from the Central girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Benton have returned from North Bridgton, Maine, to their home on Judson road.

Second Fight In Week Results In Death of B. P. W. Truck Driver

The telephone at the police station rang last Saturday night. Carl Stevens answered, and heard the voice say: "This is WLLH; any murders tonight?"

The news broadcaster had in one week changed from his customary habit of calling the police station and finding nothing doing. The Sunday before he had heard of what was then a near-manslaughter case in Shawsheen; the day before he had been told that an Andover man was being charged with manslaughter. In fact, Andover had been very much in the news, criminally speaking.

Barker Higgins, well-known red-headed young man who works part-time for the Board of Public Works, came out of the B. P. W. office last Friday feeling pretty good as the result of having been on a liquid diet. He had not been working that day, but evidently he wanted to, for he went to the B. P. W. dump truck and started to clamber aboard. The driver, Martin McDonough, of 2 Main street terrace, told him to leave. Barker refused, and there were more words. Pretty soon the words changed to blows.

It was lunch time for Sergeant Ray Hickey. He had just been relieved in the square. He came around onto Park street, and looking up toward the B. P. W. office he saw the fight in progress. Barker hit Marty, the sergeant reported, but the hardest blow landed Barker on the sidewalk, unconscious. Ray and Burke Thornton worked on him to bring him to, down in the police station, while Marty stayed in another room. When the sergeant returned to the room, he found the truck-driver on the floor. Dr. Quigley was summoned, the inhalator was brought over from the fire station. Everything was done just as fast as could be, but Marty was beyond the help of adrenalin, prone pressure or anything human beings could do. Medical examiner Dr. Deacy came over and found that a heart attack had caused his death.

One of the most conscientious men in the public works department, Mr. McDonough had been warned by his physician against over-exertion. He had a severe case of coronary thrombosis, and the excitement proved too much for his heart.

Decide On Manslaughter

For the next few hours police pondered the question of what to charge Barker with. Drunkenness and disturbance of the peace, obviously, were two logical ones, and Barker pleaded guilty later when the court tried him on these two charges. But whether or not there was manslaughter was a problem. Had Barker struck Marty hard enough to cause his death from the blow, it would have been obviously manslaughter. There were some who felt that Barker had not even hit Marty, but Sergeant Ray Hickey stated that he had seen Barker land a blow. Other possible witnesses, two B. P. W. bosses, reported that they had seen the beginning of the quarrel but had withdrawn into the B. P. W. sheds to keep out of trouble. Finally, the police decided to hold Barker on a manslaughter charge on a technicality, the reasoning being that had the fight not occurred, the driver would not have died.

The next morning in District court Barker faced Judge Chandler, who held him under $1100 bail for appearance Wednesday. The district attorney ordered an autopsy to determine the cause of death, this to take place on Monday afternoon following the funeral. Saturday afternoon Barker was freed on bail.

The autopsy substantiated the heart attack finding on the case, and the District court dismissed the manslaughter charge on Wednesday, fining Barker ten dollars on each of the other two counts.

Fine Entertainment Program For Topsfield Fair Coming Next Week

Announcement last week of the greatest entertainment program ever arranged for the Essex County Fair at Topsfield, to be held next Wednesday through Sunday, sent sales of pre-fair tickets soaring towards a new high, General Manager Robert P. Trask revealed yesterday.

Trask predicted that if the tickets continue to sell as fast in the past week, the goal of 20,000 sales will be easily surpassed.

The program for the 117th annual exposition of the Essex County Agricultural society is studied with scores of innovations and a hundred new features, calculated to provide enjoyment for every member of the family.

Officials are calling this year's fair a "Spectators show" because the attractions booked are those which were most popular with the thousands of spectators at the 1937 exposition who were polled in the recent New England wide fair survey. Racing was the top attraction with nearly 9 per cent of the patrons, so the fair executives drew up the most varied and expensive racing card in the show's history.

Wednesday and Friday afternoons some of the leading trotters and pacers on the Grand Circuit and the Maine Fair Circuit will compete on the half-mile track. Thursday afternoon a score of daredevil motorcycle riders will battle for the New England championships. Thursday night, for the first time at the fair, midget auto racing, featuring a group of headline pilots from New York tracks, will be held on the floodlighted, fifth-mile speedway in the infield. The grand climax of the racing program will be the big-auto races on the half-mile track Saturday afternoon.

Progress Made On Billboard Nuisance

Steady progress is being made here against the billboard nuisance, according to selectman Roy E. Hardy whose position on the zoning board of appeals has made him doubly interested in this matter. The state department of public works may refuse permits for billboards, and the local board of selectmen have this year entered protests against two boards. Commissioner Callahan has upheld the protests and the yearly permits have not been renewed. In recent years several other boards have come down.

Under the zoning law no large signs may be erected on property advertising anything for sale save something sold on the same premises. This will automatically eliminate all new billboards. However, there is no way of cutting out the large Coca Cola signs which are spread around practically everywhere the beverage is sold.

Children's Photographs In National Contest

Mrs. Mary E. Buchanan

The seventh Children's National Photograph Contest has as one of its judges, Mrs. Mary E. Buchanan, Managing Editor of Parents' Magazine.

In addition to her varied activities in the New York newspaper and magazine field, Mrs. Buchanan has observed, studied and worked with boys and girls for many years in an Eastern summer camp. This experience makes her singularly fitted to act as a judge in a contest of this sort in which awards will be based on children's personality and character as expressed in their photographs.

The fact that this contest is based on such qualifications as personality and character instead of prettiness or "good looks" is one of the most interesting things about the contest, according to Mrs. Buchanan and she believes that mothers will agree with her.

A total of $3,000 will be awarded in the form of 368 cash prizes and the contest is open to all children under 14. To become eligible for one of the prizes, a child has simply to be photographed in one of the many department stores all over the country which participate in the contest—among which is The Bon Marche in Lowell. A duplicate of each child's picture in this store will be entered in the contest which closes September 17.

New Shoes Injure Tewksbury Man's Head

George Petretis of Tewksbury, bought a new pair of shoes and a new hat in Lawrence last Saturday night. He wore the shoes home, or rather if he had gone home, he would have worn them there.

George's purchases in Lawrence were not made only at dry goods stores. And yet it was the pair of shoes, slippery because of their newness, that caused his downfall, so he claimed later.

Somebody picked George up and instead of taking him to Tewksbury, dropped him on Essex Street in Andover. Or maybe he had told them he lived on Shawshoeen road, and they left him on Shawshoeen road, in Andover and not in Tewksbury. At any rate he managed to navigate himself up the street and he soon found himself outside Heifetz's lunch wagon into which an hour before Sergeant Ray Hickey had stepped with a warning that the noise and revelry had better cease. George didn't want to be outside the wagon, and so he went inside, and asked for a glass of beer. But Mike Fitzgerald behind the counter looked him over, saw that he was pretty much sodden anyway, and refused to sell him any—more power to him. George just sat, and sang. Then came the downfall, which he blames on the slippery shoes. He toppled over on the stool and his head cracked against the cement floor.

The police responded with Dr. Chart, and soon George was enroute to the Lawrence General with Andover police saying to themselves: "Will this never cease?" At the hospital the name of George Petretis went immediately on the danger list, but on Monday mornig he was released, swearing that next time he won't mix his liquor and his new shoes.

Douglas Howe won the title to the Intermediate singles finals in straight sets 6-3, 6-3, over Walter Kelley at Balmoral Courts Sunday.

In the opening set the play was more or less cautious with both players getting down to business at the beginning of the second set. The type of tennis that called for severity was often substituted for care and placement for the sake of safety. It was a fine tennis match with long rallies and youthful demonstrations of court covering abilities by both players.

To Bill Crowley

Bill Crowley was present in memory at the first Pumps field day he had missed since the bathing beach was started. The usual races were held, but the main event of the afternoon was the dedication of the memorial tablet to Bill Crowley, with beach committee chairman Robert V. Deyermund delivering a sterling eulogy of the man whose efforts had so often been devoted to making the summertime pleasant for our youngsters.

The winners in the events were as follows:

Senior Girls' relay race: Winning team, Joan, Florence, Muriel and Edith Fettes.

Senior Boys' relay race: Winning team, Calvin Deyermund, Warren Deyermund, Donald McLachlan and Wilfred Boucher.

Boys' fifty yard, free style race: First, Alfred Batchelder; second, Warren Deyermund; third, N. Cleary.

Boys' fifty yard breast stroke: First, Wilfred Boucher.

Boys' 200-yard free style: First, Frank Fettes; second, Norman Druin; third, N. Cleary.

Junior Boys' 50-yard race: First, Durwood Moody.

Boys' diving: First, Harry Duke; second, Paul Buss; third, David Duke.

Girls' 50-yard free style: First, Edith Fettes; second, Muriel Fettes; third, Ruth Bisset.

Girls' 100-yard free style: First, Dorothy Campbell; second, Edith Fettes; third, Joan Fettes.

Balloon race for girls: First, Helena Charet; second, Arlene Charet; third, Joan Fettes.

Girls' 25-yard free style: First,

Joan Fettes; second, Muriel Druin. Junior diving contest for girls: Won by Alice Shorten.

Boys' fifty-yard backstroke: First, Warren Deyermund; second, Calvin Deyermund; third, Wilfred Boucher.

A boat given by Bart Chapin was awarded to Wilfred Boucher.

Flaming Schooner

When John N. Cole, 2nd, of Morton street left Gloucester aboard the yacht Liria last Friday, he had no idea that his trip would occupy an eight-column headline in the Boston papers the next morning. With Mayo Hammond of Rockport and Miss Margaret Freshman of Kittery Point, Me., he was going to Buzzards' Bay to pick up a party. The sea was calm, and everything pointed to a pleasant, uneventful trip.

Six miles off Scituate, however, things began to happen. Flames burst forth with a puff from the engine, hatches blew off, Miss Freshman was knocked from her seat. The three tried to extinguish the flames with a hand extinguisher, but it gained headway too rapidly.

The trio clambered into their dory, and fled the burning vessel. Not far off was the New York-bound steamer New York, and it left its course to pick up the group. Ashore look-out Walter Dacey sent a Coast Guard boat out, and a tanker also turned to aid in the rescue. However, the New York reached the boat first and pulled the three aboard, little the worse for their near-disaster.
